Zedi introduces integrated gas and EFM database
Software, Oct 15 2009 (Digital Energy Journal)

- Zedi has integrated its TrueChart product with Access (formerly Smart-Alek.com) allowing users to view both gas chart and electronic flow measurement (EFM) data through a secure web portal.

Zedi TrueChart is high resolution image analysis software that fully automates the production of daily readings from charts.

The integration means functionality already enjoyed with EFM products on Zedi Access is now offered with charts. This includes data exports, daily production volumes and the ability to create custom production reports and graphical representations that make comparisons and trending, across an entire field, simple and flexible.

In addition to enhanced visibility of production, producers can strengthen their business processes and documentation. For example, digitized daily production volumes provide straightforward documentation for audit purposes and the reduction of manual errors with the integration of chart data to Zedi's field data capture system, Zedi Vital, can reduce the risk of non-compliance.
